VERSATILITY OF THE THOROUGHBRED — I

News from Germany that Thoroughbred horses are now being used much more extensively for advanced dressage and have won major successes at the recent Hanover and Berlin shows, serves to emphasize the fact that of all breeds of horses the Thoroughbred, at least in the realm of sport, is the most versatile. On the race track, over brush, hurdle and timber courses, in the hunting field, in show ring hunter and jumper classes, in three day events and on the polo field, Thoroughbred and near Thoroughbred horses completely dominate. More than half the registered Quarter Horses carry better than 50% Thoroughbred blood. Even the majority of the entries in such events as the Vermont 100 Mile Trail Ride are predominantly Thoroughbred.

Sheer weight of numbers is to a small extent responsible for this predominance—we breed about 9500 foals a year in this country—but the basic reason is the nature of the breed itself, a really extraordinary phenomenon since virtually all Thoroughbreds are bred for flat racing. In breeding race horses, particularly for American tracks, everything is secondary to speed. Furthermore we want speed at a very early age—several thousand youngsters are now racing which are not yet two years old and which will not lose their baby teeth until mid-summer. The basis for this two-year-old racing is not just so that owners can get their money back quickly. It is primarily, as the late Evan Shipman phrased it, because precocity is the surest index of transmissible speed, and transmissible speed is the goal of bloodstock breeding.

Since we want our race horses, at a tender age, to carry light weights, for short distances, over level tracks, at high speeds, any animals which can transmit these abilities are put to stud, even though they may be (and frequently are) deficient in such important qualities as soundness, disposition, stamina, action and conformation. In selecting mounts for the sports other than flat racing in which Thoroughbreds predominate, we require horses for exactly opposite purposes, however—to carry heavy weights, for long distances, over rough ground at moderate speed. Furthermore we place primary emphasis, not on speed, but on soundness, disposition, stamina, action and conformation. Finally we want horses of an age—five or older—when most of them are past their prime for racing.

Even in the sport most closely allied to flat racing—major track steeplechasing—these many differences are strikingly summed up in the official weight scales for five-year-olds in October at two miles—124 pounds for flat horses and 157 pounds for steeplechasers.

Why is it that the Thoroughbred, produced for a quite opposite purpose, can beat the horses of other breeds at the specific tasks for which they are designed and bred? This is an enigma of livestock breeding which we hope to discuss in a later issue.

Letters.....

Welsh Ponies

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a letter received from Mr. Theron Wilding-Davies, recently elected president of the Welsh Pony and Cob Society.)

Dear Sir:

I enclose a short account of our general meeting which took place recently. The supply of registered Welsh Mountain ponies in this country is very short at present, but we have a grading up scheme and breeders are taking advantage of this to get their ponies into the Stud Book. The latter will be closed in two years' time.

Practically all the ponies which are being entered are quite pure, but registrations lapsed when the price of ponies was low, and records of pedigrees were lost. It will be a few years before the full effect of the scheme will be felt, and we are trying to be very careful to maintain only the best type.

I, myself, run a herd of about sixty ponies, practically all fully registered, though I have a few grading-up fillies. We have two light-weight girls (Suzan Marston and Sylvia Hall) to help us and we break a few of our ponies in, especially the young stallions. These girls have ridden two of the latter out hunting several times this season.

We are expecting about thirty foals in the spring, and intend to show about four ponies at the leading shows in the summer.

We have had many visits from your countrymen and ladies, and we always enjoy meeting them. Should you ever come I hope you will call to see us.

Yours sincerely,
T. Wilding-Davies

Brookmeade's Oligarchy Edges Calumet's Iron Liege

Raleigh Burroughs

Hialeah

On Washington's Birthday, Hialeah entertained 31,507 guests who wagered $2,465,805. This was an excellent showing in view of the conflict of dates with Bowie, and the fact that the Maryland course was staging the $3,500 Annapolis Purse, an event that had been gathering tradition for almost two days.

Sunshine Park, 150 miles closer to Bowie as the railbird flies, was not so fortunate. Only 4,419 clients showed up and the handle was a mere $251,981.

Hialeah's crowd was not the biggest ever, but it set the high mark for the current season.

The main attraction was the Widener Handicap which drew a field of quality, headed by the Calumet entry of Iron Liege and Pintor Lea. The heaviest traffic through the betting machines was on this pair, and the entry closed at 4 to 5.

Iron Liege, the high-weight in the race under 125 pounds, attempted, as is his wont, to run the legs off all opponents.

He nearly made it. Taking the lead at the break, he worked on Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Oh Johnny for three-quarters of a mile. As Oh Johnny's legs began to fail, Brookmeade Stable's Oligarchy surged up and had Iron Liege collared with a quarter of a mile to go.

The race through the stretch was a grim one. At the sixteenth pole, Oligarchy, under Sam Boulmetis, appeared ready to draw out. But Hartack and Iron Liege did not give up. They gave everything right down to the wire and missed by a head - giving away 17 pounds.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Hoop Band came up to get third place, five lengths back of the leaders and a neck before Pintor Lea, Iron Liege's stablemate.

Interviewed after the race, Sam Boulmetis said that when his horse hooked up with Iron Liege, he was confident he would be the winner. "I figured the weight would do it," quoth Sam.

Oligarchy, a four-year-old son of *Alibhai, from Elite, by Blue Larkspur, was hanging up his first stakes score. The mutual payoff was $20.90. He was fifth, 14 lengths behind the winner in the McLennan, two weeks before the Widener. Iron Liege took that one.

Oligarchy won an allowance race earlier at Hialeah, so his '58 record stands 4 starts, 2 wins and earnings of $96,050, $92,800 from the Widener.

He carried 108 pounds.

Elliott Burch, son of the famous Preston Burch (and now achieving some fame on his own account) trains Oligarchy.

The colt was bred by Brookmeade, the racing establishment of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane.

The Everglades

Because snow and sleet and the grounding of planes cut off some of my sources of information, I didn't report much about the Everglades Stakes last week. The race, run on February 15, was taken by the Calumet team of Tim Tam and Kentucky Pride. Liberty Ruler was a remote third and Gray Trust finished fourth.

The light-footed Yemen, believing the race to be at six furlongs, ripped off blazing early fractions to have a commanding lead after three-eighths of a mile. By the time Jockey Ussery recalled that he was in a mile-and-one-eighth race, Kentucky Pride had caught up and was whizzing past.

Tim Tam, with Hartack up, wasn't in too much of a hurry in the first few furlongs, but moved into prominence coming around the turn and was in first place with an eighth of a mile to go. He won over his stablemate by 1 1/4 lengths, under a strong hold.

Kentucky Pride had a six-length margin of safety over Liberty Ruler, which bested Gray Trust by three-quarters.

Tim Tam, a maiden when Hialeah opened (but a highly regarded non-winner) scored twice in allowance races and was third twice - in an allowance and in the Bahamas - before the Everglades.

The $22,250 he brought in by taking the February 15 race put his 1958 earnings at $31,250. He ran once last year, finishing fourth and collecting $275.

Jimmy Jones trains the son of Tom Fool-Two Lea, by Bull Lea. Calumet Farm belongs to Mrs. Gene Markey. Tim Tam is a home-bred.

Florida Breeders' Stakes

The eleventh running of the Florida Breeders' Stakes (February 19) was taken by Fred W. Hooper, Jr.'s Pryson, which accomplished the three-furlong dash in 33 1/5 seconds. The Schlosser entry of Marisa and Coltrane took second and third places and F. W. Hooper, Sr.'s Prybu finished fourth.

Pryson broke alertly and raced into the lead, never to be headed. The two-year-old gelding won by 1 1/4 lengths. Necks separated the other money horses. The winner paid $3.90 for $2.

Pryson (Pry-Heavenly Sun, by Olympia) was registering his second victory in 2 tries.

The race was worth $16,075.

Pryson was bred by Mr. Hooper, Jr., and is trained by Chuck Parke.

Santa Anita

Round Table came through as expected in the San Antonio Handicap on February 15. He was half a mile getting into the lead, but when he passed Battle Dance and *Seaneen to go in front, his backers stopped worrying. The four-year-old colt was two lengths on top hitting the stretch, and Shoemaker had plenty of horse left (plus 3 1/2 lengths of daylight) at the wire. The time of 1:46 4/5 equals the world record for 1 1/8 miles.

The longshot Mystic Eye took second money; Promised Land was third and Porterhouse fourth.

Round Table put $33,300 into the pocket of Mr. Travis M. Kerr and ran his current victory skein to four. His 1958 record is 3 for 3 and $129,680. The four-year-old colt has won the San Fernando Handicap and the Santa Anita Maturity, besides the San Antonio, since New Year's Day. He took the Malibu Sequet on December 28 at Santa Anita.

The son of *Princequillo-Knight's Daughter, by Sir Cosmo, earned $600,258 in 1957. His lifetime total is $803,264. He has passed Native Dancer ($785,240) and is breathing on the necks of the five horses ahead of him in all-time earnings.

Claiborne Farm bred Round Table. Willie Molter trains him.

The San Felipe Handicap

Mrs. L. J. McMahan's Carrier X, the longest shot in the race, won the San Felipe on February 19. The winner, a roan gelding by Count Fleet, out of Amiga, by *Mahmoud, won by a length over Aliwar. Furyvan was third, and the choice, Music Man Fox, fourth.

Carrier X, under Taniguchi, carried the lightest burden of the seven starters, 108 pounds.

He trailed in the early stages of the mile-and-one-sixteenth race, but began moving after half a mile and overhauled the pacesetter Aliwar to win by one length.

The prize amounted to $16,350.

Carrier X was bred by Leslie Combs II and Brownell Combs. Mrs. McMahan bought him for $19,000 at Keeneland in '56.

R. L. Wheeler trains Carrier X.

ABOUT STEEPLECHASING

A full New York season of Steeplechase and Hurdle Racing has been announced by John W. Hanes, President of The Greater New York Association Inc., with Belmont's sessions again including this type of sport in both the Spring and Autumn meetings. It will be remembered that, in 1957, the Spring sessions at the huge Nassau County plant were abandoned because of the extensive renovations there. While these improvements have had a million dollars more added for 1958, the turf courses are finally set and there will be full seasons of 'Chasing at both Belmont and at Saratoga again this year.

This year's first meeting at Belmont opens on Monday, May 12, and on the next Thursday, May 15, there comes the first 'Chase Stakes, which will be the Charles L. Appleton Memorial handicap for $8,000 added. Before the end of the Belmont Spring session on July 5, there will be five more stakes run over the big fences and the hurdles, including the Belmont Spring Maiden 'Chase, the Belmont National Maiden Hurdle, the International and the Meadow Brook 'Chase handicaps and the Hurdle handicap, the Forget.

Then, at Saratoga, the ancient upstate course will see a total of six stakes settled through the infield before closing day August 27, and there will be seven more stakes for 'Chasers and Hurdlers during the Autumn racing at Belmont, from August 29 through October 20, including a new one for three-year-olds, now tentatively named The ElkrIDGE, in honor of one of the greatest of modern day field horses, the steeplechase champion of '46 and one of the best which ever ran.

The stakes list for 1958 -

Jack Ketch (Abadan-Ex Law), leading Irish 3-year-old of 1957 has been purchased by Frank More O'Ferrall, president of the Anglo Irish Agency of London, for Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben's Hasty House Farm. Winner of the Irish Two Thousand Guineas at one mile and the Tetrarch Stakes at seven furlongs in 1957, Jack Ketch is currently top weight (133 pounds) for the Lincolnshire Handicap, the first big stakes race of the English season, to be run on March 25th. He will not start in this race, however, but instead is being flown to this country.

FIRST BELMONT WINNER

Ruthless, first winner of the Belmont Stakes in 1867, was bred at Throgg's Neck, Westchester County, New York by Francis Morris, father of Alfred Hennen Morris, only surviving founder member of The Jockey Club, and grandfather of John A. Morris, Treasurer of TRA. The all scarlet colors now carried by John A. Morris' horses are among the oldest in America.

GERMAN 'CHASE JOCKEY

Champion steeplechase jockey for the fourth year in succession in 1957 was Herbert Cohn. He is considered so good a rider that he often gets a mount on the favorite, even though he may be as much as 15 pounds overweight.

Elliott Burch, son of Brookmeade's long time trainer Preston M. Burch, who is recovering from an illness.

JOCKEYS' TAXES

Bert Thompson, national managing director of the Jockeys' Guild, and attorney C. J. Robinson, president of Golden Gate Fields, recently appeared before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, then considering H. R. 7609, which would allow professional athletes a tax deduction equal to 15 per cent of their gross income during their active years of sport. They claim that jockeys are in the same class as professional prize fighters, football, baseball, basketball and hockey players.

LLANGOLLEN HORSES TO LURO

Mrs. M. E. Lunn, who with Mr. Lunn recently left for Santa Anita where she has a string of horses in charge of Charles Whittingham, turned over the Florida string, which she has been training herself, to Horatio Luro.

DUNNE AT TROPICAL

E. F. Vickers, Jr., general manager of Tropical Park, Coral Gables, Fla., has announced that Francis P. Dunne, racing secretary since 1944, has also been made a director of racing.

ROCKINGHAM MOTHBALLS

General manager Lou Smith of Rockingham Park, Salem, N.H., saves a $10,000 spring cleaning bill every year by buying $10.00 worth of mothballs in the autumn which keep the pigeons from roosting there.

SNOW RACING

Hein Bollow, leading jockey of Germany for the last three years, started off the new year in promising if frigid fashion. On four consecutive Sundays the winter resort of St. Moritz, in Switzerland, offers racing on its snow covered frozen lakes. He won races on each of the first two Sundays including the Grosser Preis von Sankt Moritz.

WHITTLEDY CUT

The race horse, Whittledy Cut, came within a nose of his name in a recent photo finish at the Hialeah track. In Kentucky mountain talk, Whittledy Cut means "dead-heat".

TEN GREATEST MARES

The ballots of 120 members of the American Trainers' Association, directed to Helen Stairwalt of the Delaware Park staff, were overwhelmingly in favor of retaining the ranking of the 10 greatest American race mares, first established by a ballot of this organization three years ago. This ranking is as follows: 1st - Gallorette (1942) trained by E. A. Christmas; 2nd - Twilight Tear (1941) trained by B. A. Jones; 3rd - Regret (1912) trained by J. Rowe; 4th - Top Flight (1929) trained by T. J. Healey; 5th - Miss Woodford (1880) trained by J. Rowe; 6th - Busher (1942) trained by Graceton Philpot; 7th - Beldame (1901) trained by Fred Burlew; 8th - Princess Doreen (1921) trained by S. M. Henderson; 9th - Bewitch (1945) trained by H. A. Jones; 10th - Imp (1894) trained by C. E. Brossman.

BRITISH SAND TRACK

Utilizing hundreds of thousands of tons of used casting sand from the Ford foundry in Leamington, England, Arthur Thomas has constructed an American style training track at his nearby property at Guy's Cliff.

BOWIE TRACK

Marty Meyer, track superintendent at Bowie, did a marvelous job of getting the track in shape for opening day on February 8 in spite of three days of frozen ground followed by a day of rain and then another freeze which was still with us when the racing started. It's not done with wires and mirrors and black magic. What it takes to make a racing surface under conditions like those is unremitting effort and a lot of good equipment. Marty had his crews working straight thru the night of February 7 to achieve this miracle of a raceable race track so Bowie could open on schedule.

Nobody can say Mr. Meyer doesn't come by his position at Bowie honestly. He was born just a mile from where the track now stands.

CALIFORNIA RESERVOIR

Lou Rowan, recently elected to a 4th term as president of the California Breeders Association, in a speech to members, ascribed much of the success of California breeding to the large number of unproven stallions and mares now domiciled in that state, saying: "It occurs to me that one of the strongest points in our favor is our enthusiasm and lack of cynicism. We are willing to try anything and from this great reservoir of raw material, and we have lots of it, each year will come some diamonds."

VIRGINIA

VIRGINIA BREEDERS AWARDS

Several years ago the Virginia Thoroughbred Association, Warrenton, Va. inaugurated a plan of Breeders Awards. These awards are made annually to the Virginia Breeders or Virginia Owners who register prior to March 31st of its yearling year with the Association the highest weighted colt and filly on the United States Two-Year-Old Experimental Free Handicap.

To be eligible for these awards, registrations must be on file with the Association. The registration fee is $2.00 for each foal, and these applications must be made by March 31st following the year of its birth.

The first of these awards was made in 1953 on the two-year-old racing of 1952. This year's awards will be presented to the winning breeders at the Annual Meeting of the Association in the spring. Foals of 1957 will be eligible for the award based on the racing of 1959. Hence, it is important that breeders or owners register their 1957 foals now.

PINE BROOK FOAL

Dr. F. A. O'Keefe's Pine Brook Farm reports that the mare Atara by Polynesian out of Morning purchased at the Keeneland Fall Sales from Viscount Astor, foaled a brown filly on January 18th by Abernant, the second leading sire of fillies in England.

OVERPLUS STABLES

Longtime horseman Philip Triplett of Hume, Virginia has sold his dairy interests and leased the Overplus Stables and cottage on the Flint Hill road. This is the establishment originally built by Sterling Larrabee when he started the Old Dominion hounds. Mr. Triplett has here a breeding and boarding establishment centered about the Hyperion stallion *El Hawa II. This syndicated stallion was literally evicted from his former home by a housing development, as of Jan. 1st, but fits well into the Overplus Stables situation. *El Hawa II won the Rous Memorial Stakes at Ascot and the Tattersall Sales Stakes at Doncaster at 2, and was weighted at 120 lbs in the English Free Handicap. His full sister *Hastra, was sold to Joe W. Brown of New Orleans in the Aga Khan's Keeneland Sales of Broodmares. Her son, *Akbar Khan, winner of three stakes here in 1957 and a track record (turf) was one of the best yearlings sold in the Aly Khan's spectacular Saratoga vendues. In addition, *Hastra's daughter, Rose of Yeroda, produced the great, but ill-fated Rose Royale. To round out the picture, *El Hawa II's Third dam, Bayora, is a half-sister to *Herodius, dam of Pilate and ancestress of War Relic, Helioscope, Boat and all the rest. He is standing at a fee of $350.

Llangollen Reduction

Mrs. M. E. Lunn, of Llangollen Farm, Upperville, Va., who also maintains Rancho Llangollen in California, has entered 8 two-year-olds and 24 older horses in the sale of horses in training held in California, February 24-25. She also plans a reduction in her broodmare band.

*MIDAS FIRST

The first American-bred and American-foaled *Midas foal arrived at Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ritzenberg's North Hill Farm, Berryville, Va. on February 1st. It is a bay colt out of the mare Lady Advocate who is by Bimelech out of Portia. She herself won over $50,000 and is a full sister to Basino who won stakes and close to $200,000. Lady Advocate will be bred back to *Midas.

FAST JANE

Recently purchased by Mrs. George P. Greenhalgh, Sr., of the Springsbury Farm, Berryville, Va., is the French-bred stakes winner Fast Jane (Fastnet-Djaina, by Djebel). Agent for Mrs. Greenhalgh in the transaction was David McCall of the London Bloodstock Agency, who purchased her from Baron Waldner. As a 2 and 3-year-old she started fourteen times being only twice unplaced and winning the Prix d'Houlgate, Prix de Royaumont and Prix de Malleret. She is currently in foal to Tourment and will be bred to Alizier.

*BIG THRILL

A new stallion standing at L. Clay Camp's Sunset Hill Farm, Rockville, Virginia is *Bill Thrill, by Big Game out of the Fairway mare Thrust. *Big Thrill won the Herring Fisheries Stakes in England at two. He is a brother to the winners Damascus, Match Point and the producer Jollification. The second dam is Sword Play by Great Sport dam of the stakes winners En Garde, *Challenger II, Thrustaway, Champion, etc. He is 17.1 hands and stands at a fee of $200, live foal.

*KING'S EVIDENCE'S FIRST

The first foal by *King's Evidence was recently dropped at E. L. Stephenson's Kilmaurs Stud, Warrenton, Va. She is a bay filly out of Blackabout (Black Tarquin), a mare who won good allowance races at Arlington Park and Hialeah and who comes from the family of Whirlaway. The foal is an outstanding individual.

MARYLAND

NAMED BY VANDERBILT

Alfred G. Vanderbilt of the Sagamore Farm, Glyndon, Md., over the years has established a reputation for the pat and entertaining names given his home-bred colts and fillies. Among those accepted by The Jockey Club for his current crop of 2-year-olds are: Shoot The Breeze (Count Fleet-Sweet Talk, by *Alibhai); Dance All Night (Native Dancer-Plucky Maid, by Ariel); Ever So Humble (Stone Age-Grass Shack, by Polynesian); Missionary Stew (Native Dancer-Buffer Supper, by Pilate); and Sit This Out (Native Dancer-Sitting Duck, by Devil Diver).

CALIFORNIA

YATASTO'S MATES

Yatasto, recently imported from Argentina and hailed as the greatest stallion from that country ever to come to the United States, is being bred this season to Louis Rowan's Mrs. Rabbit (Milkman-Play Mary Jane), the dam of Spinney, winner of the 1957 Maturity. Other stakes winning or stakes producing mares going to Yatasto are owned by George Thomas, George Taniguchi, Mr. and Mrs. John de Blois Wack, L. G. Burns and Laguna Seca.

TOULOUSE LAUTREC

Rex C. Ellsworth of California recently purchased from the Razza Dormello-Olgia in Italy, the 8-year-old stallion Toulouse Lautrec (Dante-Tokamura), subject to the approval of the Italian government. Delivery is to be made at the conclusion of the 1958 breeding season. Toulouse Lautrec won the Gran Premio d'Italia, Gran Premio di Milano and Premio Emanuele Filiberto, and seven of his ten starts at 2 and 3. His only defeat as a 3-year-old was when he ran third in the Italian Derby.

FROM ABROAD

RELIC'S DAUGHTER

At the head of the French Free Handicap is Texana, a filly owned by Francois Dupre, unbeaten in 11 races in 1957, with a 132 pounds. Texana is by the American-bred stallion Relic.

RIBOT'S FERTILITY

It appears that 27 out of the 30 mares to which the great Italian sire Ribot was bred in 1957 at Lord Derby's stud farm are in foal.

TICINO'S RECORD

Heading the list of German stallions for the eighth consecutive year, is Gestuet Erlenhof's Ticino (Althanasius - Terre, by Aditi), foaled in 1942. He died last August at Bad Homburg.

NASHUA'S FIRST FOAL, a bay colt out of Windmill, a *Quatra Bras II mare belonging to Mereworth Farm.

Nashua's First

The first foal sired by Nashua, the world's leading money-winning horse, arrived Saturday, February 1, at Mereworth Farm. The foal, a bay colt, is out of Windmill, a stakes-winning mare.

Nashua, which stands at Leslie Combs II's Spendthrift Farm, near Lexington, is scheduled to have 23 other foals in his first crop, with arrival dates from now until mid-May.

Bred by Belair Stud, Nashua was purchased by a syndicate headed by Combs in December, 1955, for a record price of $1,251,200. At that time the colt already had earned $845,415 in two seasons. Combs and his associates raced him in 1956, and Nashua picked up an additional $343,150, bringing his total earnings for 3 years of racing to $1,288,565. The only other horse ever to earn one million dollars was Citation, which banked $1,085,076, in 4 seasons.

Nashua won 22 of 30 starts during his racing career, and his victories included the most famous races of the American Turf. He won the Futurity, Juvenile, Grand Union Hotel, and Hopeful Stakes as a 2-year-old and was voted the best of his age. The following year he lost only twice in 12 starts, and his triumphs included the Florida Derby, Wood Memorial, Preakness, Belmont, Dwyer, and Arlington Classic Stakes, the Jockey Club Gold Cup, and a match race with Swaps. At year's end he was voted horse of the year in all polls.

As a 4-year-old Nashua carried top weight in all of his races, winning several of America's most notable handicaps - The Widener, Grey Lag, Camden, and Monmouth Handicaps. He also won the Jockey Club Gold Cup for the second straight year and set a new American record for the 2 mile classic.

Windmill, mother of Nashua's first foal, is owned by Mereworth Farm, which is a member of the syndicate which owns the famous stallion.

HUNTING

BLUE RIDGE HUNT

Millwood, Clarke County,
Virginia.
Established 1889.
Recognized 1904.

Until the first of January Blue Ridge has enjoyed one of its best seasons in recent years. The drought which affected many other hunting countries along the Atlantic seaboard fortunately did not extend to this part of the Shenandoah Valley so that we were able to start the cubbing season with ample moisture in the ground. Foxes have been plentiful and we have mirabile dictu, not had a single blank day. Our young entry is unusually large - 14 1/2 couple. Fortunately we started road work in April and kept up a continuous program, walking hounds among all kinds of livestock and accustoming them to getting through fences.

Partly for this reason we have had less trouble with deer, although these have actually been more numerous than in the past. For example, during a January hunt on a day when the ground was cold and scent poor, hounds started off on a deer which jumped up in their faces. The staff galloped to a ride in order to stop them and viewed across it, first the deer and then, 100 yards away, a fine red fox. The cry of hounds was tremendous as they drove toward us and the suspense acute - which quarry were they hunting? Suspense gave way to smiles, however, as the pack drove across the ride on the line of the fox - not a hound was on the deer!

Three foxes have made enviable reputations in vulpine circles, no doubt returning each night to their families with tall tales of exploits afield. The old customer from Bell's woods, although not the straightest necked of foxes, nevertheless has a fine eye for a country and seems to take pleasure in running where the turf is sound, the fences upstanding and the country open. His neighbor to the south, who frequents the fields bordering the Clay Hill lane, has given us several fine gallops to the Island Farm and back at a pace which has fully extended horses, hounds and riders. The Wolfe Marsh fox, also an outlier, who does most of his running in the open, has on several occasions tested the versatility of the pack, leaving lines which hounds have hunted at speeds varying from cold trailing to hard driving. In December they made one of the longest points in recent Blue Ridge history, the pack splitting on Opequon Creek after running hard west from Callender, one half returning over much the same line and continuing due east through Annefield and Llewellyn to the mouth of Craig run, the point being about seven miles and the distance about eleven as hounds ran. Our fears that we might be running a deer were fortunately dispelled when it became obvious that our quarry had negotiated the railroad by running underneath it through a culvert.

THE CHRONICLE

Because diesel engines have replaced steam on this same railroad and new ties are being consequently installed, we have been able to secure quantities of old ties which make by far the best panels we have ever installed. Being impregnated with creosote they should last a great many years. Both horses and other livestock respect them thoroughly.

The Blue Ridge Pony Club is flourishing like the green bay tree and each year furnishes us with more foxhunters. January and February, which in recent years have given us our best sport, this year have been anything but cooperative. But one of the fascinating things about fox-hunting is that - you never know. Certainly we all hope for a few weeks of good weather to finish the season.

WEST HILLS HUNT

4014 1/2 Brunswick Avenue,
Los Angeles 39,
California.
Established 1949.
Registered 1950.

The annual hunt at Palm Springs was held by the West Hills Hunt of Los Angeles on Sunday, Feb. 9, with approximately 40 in the field.

Hounds moved out from Smoke Tree Ranch, south of Palm Springs at 9 a. m., and were roaded southward to a wash where they picked up the drag line.

The first run saw several falls, as the rains had softened the sand and made the going extremely heavy in some sections. A rather ghoulish note was furnished by some 30 spectators, afoot, who apparently knew where the heavy going started and lined the wash at this point to watch the tumbles.

The remainder of the runs were tops. Highlight was an hour of live hunting when hounds ran a desert hare and eventually killed.

The last run found the punch bowl, midway between the polo grounds and Smoke Tree, and later members and guest gathered at the Racquet Club for breakfast.

George Buns acted as MFH in the absence of Dan Dailey who was home ill. Whippers-in were Judy Hanna, Boyd Morgan and Paul Crockett. Dave Wendler is huntsman.

Foxhunting Fortnight In Eire

On January 2nd four foxhunters from Chester County, Pennsylvania, left New York City for Shannon, with the expectation of foxhunting in Eire. When they returned to America fifteen days later, they had hunted with six different Irish packs on twelve occasions, and with a conviction to a man that the experience of a fox-hunting holiday in Eire should be one of the aims of every foxhunter.

These four, Henry Baldwin, A. G. Neville, John W. B. Bausman and Albert J. Nesbitt were joined in Eire by Mr. Bausman's son, Jack. During the fifteen days they were in Eire, they stayed at the guest house of the Misses Edith and Vera Cleeve, known as Oaklands situated in the village of Clonmel.

It would be difficult to say which hunt provided the greatest pleasure for each had its peculiar attraction, and there was not a single meet that did not provide at least one good hunt. On the whole, foxes proved to be plentiful. It was not an unusual experience to find five foxes in a single day's hunting, and in Eire one can hunt every day of the week as this group did. The packs hunted with were: Tipperary Evans Williams, Master; Scarteen (Black and Tans), T. J. Ryan, M.F.H.; Kilkenney, Major Victor McCalmont, M.F.H.; United Hunted by professional huntsmen, Glenn Brown, Secretary of the Committee; Duhallow, Mr. Freeman-Jackson, M.F.H.; and Limerick, Lord Daresbury, M.F.H.

ARAPAHOE HUNT

Route 1, Box 62,
Littleton,
Colorado.
Established 1929.
Recognized 1934.

During the last three weeks of December and the first two of January we had no moisture and scent varied from poor to fair, but there were plenty of coyotes, running in threes. With their apparent disregard for traveling up or down wind plus the persistence of acting huntsman Marvin Beeman we had good runs even on poor days.

On Dec. 26th hounds found their first coyote in the East Ranch and ran him out of the brush across Indian Springs but lost in the wind swept fields beyond. The second coyote of the day was found lurking among the yuccas on the north side of the Anticline, barely got up in time to save his brush, headed with a vengeance for the Hole where he entertained us up and down hill the next half hour, spilled the huntsman on an icy bank, and finally bade us good-bye at the Buffalo pasture.

The Cheese Ranch is a favorite part of our hunting country with its grassy fields nearly flat and marked only by a shallow meandering creek bed and a sparse grove of locust trees. Even after a wet summer which produced grass and tumble weeds two or three feet in height - and a most effective ground cover when approached at speed - it is still a delightful place for a run. On the 29th hounds found four coyotes and ran for 55 minutes entirely within the Cheese Ranch, putting one coyote to ground and running the others back and forth across the creek.

On Jan. 5th hounds found a coyote as they crossed the saddle in the Hole and took him straight to the Buffalo fence where they ran into a herd of panic stricken deer trying to jump the 8 foot wire enclosure. Hounds were unperturbed, but it was a hectic few minutes from the horses' point of view.

The 9th was a balmy afternoon promising a pleasant ride but little scent and even hounds were kicking up a cloud of dust. To our astonishment hounds gave us an excellent forty minutes on three coyotes circling through the Tower, the Pollack and around the Rocks. Huntsman Marvin Beeman with the aid of his whipper-in did a superb job of keeping hounds smoothly and steadily on the line and the hilltoppers on the rocks had a perfect view of the entire run. When the coyote ran past them, our benched huntsman George Beeman joined the pack to cheer them on, and as Mrs. Hans Kloefer remarked as the field rode past, "There's nobody up here but us hounds."

The following two hunts were even drier though far from blank, but it snowed heavily on the 19th and scent has been excellent ever since. Although the doctor had not given his approval, everybody was so afraid George would fall off the top of the car hilltopping that he was allowed to take over again. The 9 inches of fresh light snow on the 23rd made excellent footing and the smallest field of the year, twenty riders, trotted down the Kennel road before crossing into the South Pollack where hounds were put into cover. They were not long in finding and opened up near the Diamonds fence, swung east through the Tower, ascended the Anticline, swept over the top and down the north side into the Purebred pasture, across these great fields into the Breaks, worked more slowly through the Picnic Ground's trees, into the Bull Pasture and north to Headquarters Road for an hour and seven minutes with only one check when the coyote ran through a herd of cattle. It was the bitch pack this day and Wanda and Angel were the stars. There was some confusion among the field when hounds were blown "gone away" going north and the huntsman could be seen riding south for the only gate out of the Bull Pasture, but no wonder, both George and Marvin carry a horn these days and it's not the hounds who don't know which way to go!

The fast pack was out on the 26th and with the snow heavier and a little cursted gave us a roaring hour and seven minutes across the East Ranch, ascending and descending three steep, rock and snow covered hills which a lot of the field of 50 wished they had never seen. On the 30th the snow was melting fast and the horses, tails were neatly tied up out of the way of the ankle deep mud. Hounds were cast into the South Ranch but drew blank until corssing into the Pollack. The coyote ran east through the Tower, turned north into the open, popped back into the draw, came out again in another wide circle, cut through the Diamond's where Mr. Diamond waved us on, crossed the wheat field, ran the entire length of the South Pollack from west to east, past the Rocks through the draw behind Kennels, where half the field went home, and with the sun going down and the air rapidly cooling, worked into the Tower and more slowly a half mile up the dirt road. Hounds were called in at the Breaks after an hour and 20 minutes.

On February 3rd, a coyote was tally-hoed in the Breaks, ran into the open fields of the Purebred, and made three big circles around the Trap and along Bennett's Gulch with the coyote playing for keeps, as George put it, for a good hour. On the 6th it was a foggy 24 degrees but nobody noticed. Hounds found in the Pollack, ran east up the draw, through the Tower woods and circled to the Rocks where the hilltoppers waved us on into the South Pollack. Here the coyote cut sharply back George's cast didn't pick him up, but a few minutes later, hounds hit the line again crossing the Pollack draw. From then on they never stopped, making a second great circle similar to the first but working the line through the South Pollack into Cook's and Diamonds swingtin wide into the north fields of the Pollack, coming back through the Tower and for the third time to the Rocks. It was an hour and 25 minutes, very fast. Our imported English Stallion hound Rifler evidently felt at home in the fog and led the pack a part of the way for the first time. H.C.N.

Feeding Foxhounds

The feeding of a pack of foxhounds has occupied the minds of many men for many years, and a visit to a dozen kennels will disclose as many different diets.

However, it is well to bear in mind the reasons why one feeds: a foxhound has to be kept in sufficient flesh to be healthy, without carrying any surplus fat which would tire him at the end of a long day.

The finest of old oatmeal, boiled into a stiff pudding, cooled and broken up in the trough with a little water and a quantity of shredded flesh is a good basis for feeding. The broth in which the flesh is boiled should never be fed as it is too acid and will make hounds scratch. Likewise, all fat should be skimmed from the coppers - 5 or 8% of fat is plenty.

The addition of scalded flaked maize will put "back" on a poor hound and a little dry bran added to the feed will prevent scouring. Flowers of sulphur will prevent hounds from eating their droppings. In summer, rice can be substituted for oatmeal as it is not so heating; but when hunting, only oatmeal will hold hound condition.

Chopped raw beetroot or carrot tops are good conditioners and a handful of salts weekly with wood charcoal powder help to keep hounds healthy. If good raw flesh can be obtained I like to feed a carcass to the pack, although shy feeders may need lumps of flesh, as they will sometimes not tear the flesh off the bones.

Bone meal, bones or crushed bone chips are excellent, particularly for young hounds. Brood bitches, whelps and puppies should always have preferential feeding - lean meat, whole milk (never skimmed) and cod liver oil are good extras, and the "nursery group" should be fed more than once a day. Old hounds should be fed once daily - early morning in winter, and late afternoon in summer.

After hunting I like to feed hounds at once, but then offer them another turn at the trough an hour or so later; sometimes a tired hound will not fill himself when he first comes in.

The feed should never be hot, or scouring will result; and never slushy - slush merely blows them out, without sticking to their ribs.

The proof of good feeding is the appearance of hounds on their return after a long day's hunting. They should be gay and full of life, and even if their ribs are a little stripped their backs should still be well covered.

IRISH FAMILIES, THEIR NAMES, ARMS AND ORIGINS BY EDWARD MACLYSAGHT, HODGES FIGGIS & CO., DUBLIN 1957, 248 COLOR ILLUS.; AVAILABLE BARNES & NOBLE, NEW YORK CITY.

The most authoritative and accurate book ever produced on the subject. Apart from its permanent value as an orthodox reference for scholars, it provides fascinating reading. A large folio 11 x 8 1/2, it is rich in the pageantry and adventure of historical events. Tyrone Power, (1797-1841) a celebrated Irish comedian; Plunkett, of French origin (not Danish as often stated) a corruption of blanchet, derived from blanc, white; uidhir, genitive of odhar, meaning dun-coloured - mag (a form of mac used before vowels) becomes MAGUIRE, belong to County Fermanagh, appearing first in the Annals of the year 956. The superb color renditions -

243 Coats of Arms (with Crest and/or Motto) are exquisitely reproduced. These blazons are especially interesting to Chronicle readers, for horses, mounted knights in armour, fox, hounds, mementos of the chase, are incorporated in most. Those who have hunted in Ireland or are familiar with Irish hunting country will recognize familiar packs, knowing well that hunting dates back to the dawn of Irish history. Woven into these genealogies is evidence of many of the great hunts still extant in Ireland today. E. S. W.

HORSE SHOWS

Pompano Beach

Two of the country's most popular junior show ring riders walked off with top honors in the hunter division at the fourth annual Pompano Beach Show on February 7.

Young Alice O. Frazer teamed evenly with her grey Teddy Bear to earn the hunter tri-color with wins in the open and working classes, while fifteen year old Pricie McIntosh brought his Son Imp in for reserve honors. In the stake, Waverly Farm gave the crowd a peek at their green hunter material when their lovely bay colt, Blue Horizon, by Blue Yonder, won the blue in nice style.

In the jumper division, Mr. J. R. Patterson's Mr. Midnight continued on his winning Florida ways with first ties in the knock down and out and stake classes. Lila Phillips, on her improving big Thoroughbred, Sputnik, gave Mr. Midnight a run for his money in a thrilling jump off in the stake and was named reserve champion of the show.

Florida hunter folk were pleased to have the combined judging efforts of Bobby Motch and Gene Cunningham at this second show of the winter Sunshine Circuit. J.A.

INTERNATIONAL JUMPING CHAMPIONS

According to a compilation made by the French periodical "L'Information Hippique" the leading jumping team of 1957 was Germany with 34 individual wins and three nations' cups for a total of 37. In second place is Italy with 34 1/3 individual wins and two nations' cups, total 36 1/3. Great Britain is in third place with 27 individual wins and 2 nations' cups for a total of 29.

In ranking the individual riders, one point was given for each individual win and one point for each win as a member of a team winning a nations' cup. On this basis, Captain de Fombelle of France and H. G. Winkler of Germany were tied with 15 points followed by Fritz Thiedemann of Germany with 14 points and Capt. R. D'Inzeo of Italy with 11 points.

Among the lady riders, Pat Smythe and Dawn Palethorpe of Great Britain were tied with 10 points, their closest rivals being Frl. Clement of Germany, Miss Harper and Miss Anderson of Great Britain, each with 3 points.

Penn State

Combined Training

The Penn State Riding Club of Pennsylvania State University will hold its 5th Annual Two Day Horse Trials April 19 and 20. The event was formerly known as the Modified Three-Day Event.

The program, consisting of dressage, cross-country, and stadium jumping is patterned after the Olympic Three-Day Test for horses and riders, in order to further the objectives of the U. S. Equestrian Team. Entries from hunt clubs, riding associations, schools, and private teams are encouraged. Individual and Team Championships will be awarded. Programs, entry blanks, and information concerning the Trials may be obtained from Judith Maguire, Box 263, McElwain, University Park, Pa.

PRINCE BERNARD vs BRUNDAGE

The editor of "The Field" writes: "When, recently, I referred to Mr. Avery Brundage, the president of the International Olympic Committee, as the Foster Dulles of international sport, I had not heard of his latest volte-face. It suggests that the identifying process is almost complete.

"Last year at Stockholm Mr. Brundage suggested to Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, who is president of the Federation Equestre Internationale, that the members of teams in the Olympic three-day event should be increased to four, and that the show-jumping team should be continued. This view was confirmed last June at a meeting of the International Olympic Committee at Evian.

"In September, as some of my readers will know, the L.O.C. reversed this decision, and did away with teams in all equestrian events for 1960. According to the F.E.I. the decision was made without reference to them, and they were not represented at the meeting. Prince Bernhard, I am told, intends to fight the Olympic committee on this issue.

SLAUGHTER MEMORIAL RACE

An old race with a new name will be run at the Rappahannock Point-to-Point Races at Thornton Hill Farm, Sperryville, Va., on Saturday, March 1st. This is an open race of about 3 miles, minimum weight 175 pounds, known as the Mary D. Slaughter Memorial. Mrs. Slaughter, who died early in January, was for many years one of the staunchest supporters of the Rappahannock Hunt. In addition to being a liberal subscriber she gave a number of trophies for hunt events and was most generous in opening her house and making available its lovely ball room for hunt functions, particularly the Hunt Ball and for the party held after the Annual Point-to-Point Meeting. She was a great lady in every sense of the word and it is entirely fitting that this tribute should be paid to her memory.

BOOKS

BALLADS AND POEMS, BY SIR ALFRED MUNNINGS, LONDON, MUSEUM PRESS, LTD., 1957, pp. 176, OBTAINABLE FROM SYDNEY SMITH, CANAAN, N. Y.

After having established himself as the foremost equestrian painter of his day, from which followed the presidency of the Royal Academy, Sir Alfred Munnings published three volumes of an autobiography, which not only make delightful and entertaining reading, but constitute a social document of some importance on the artist's way of life in Britain during the first half of the century. His latest venture consists of a volume of poems and ballads. Some of them come off very well, notably "A Robin's Song in Twelve Stanzas"; "Pork Sandwiches"; "The Cottesmore Ball"; "An Exmoor Lane"; and "Tracks on Exmoor". A larger number make good reading, but are not on quite the same plane of success as Sir Alfred's previous efforts. There are four of Munnings' paintings reproduced in black and white photographs and a whole series of delightful pencil sketches throughout the text. The book is well worth buying for the illustrations alone with some extra poems thrown in for good measure.

THE YEAR OF THE HORSE BY RITA RITCHIE, ILLUSTRATED BY LORENCE F. BJORKLUND, PUBLISHED BY E. P. DUTTON & CO., INC., NEW YORK, $3.00.

The Year of the Horse is an exciting adventure story of a young Mongol boy in the year 1211 - The Year of the Horse - in the midst of the Genghis Khan's empire in the Gobi Desert.

It is refreshingly different from most teenagers' horse stories. Though my own knowledge of the life and customs of that era is limited, Miss Ritchie's background seems convincingly authentic, and extremely interesting.

THE CHRONICLE

I realize that the little Mongol ponies were renowned for their great toughness and stamina under the most dreadful conditions. However, I doubt that even those strong little creatures could live up to what Miss Ritchie asks of them. There is a sick yearling which is nursed back to health by the young Mongol boy, Botokai. Then, as only a two-year-old, the young horse is able to carry his young master on a long and perilous journey into the vast, treacherous northland, deep in winter snow. After weeks and weeks they emerge, weak but triumphant, with the document which would prove Botokai's father's innocence as a traitor. I doubt also the ability of any horse to gallop with a messenger boy on his back for fifty miles and return in the same night.

With those exceptions, I found the book interesting and intriguingly different. Mr. Bjorklund's illustrations lend flavor to the oriental background. E. B. C.

THE YEAR IN SPORTS, 1958 EDITION THE ASSOCIATED PRESS REVIEW OF THE MEMORABLE SPORTS EVENTS OF 1957. EDITED BY TED SMITS, 256 pages; Prentice-Hall. $12.50

Announced as the first of a series of Associated Press Sports annuals, this handsome book in a 10 by 13 inch folio, is a welcome inclusion in the literature of the sports world. Encyclopaedic in scope, it chronicles alphabetically the American sports arena from Archery to Yachting.

Architecturally the book is superbly constructed. The concise descriptive editorial content of each chapter is followed by a compilation of vital statistics, producing an unparalleled reference, for 1958 or 1988.

Its outstanding feature, however, is the superior quality of its photographic reportage. Here the reader becomes an excited ring-side spectator, savoring with gusto the triumphs, or sharing sympathetically in the disappointments--realistic moments captured by the magic of the camera.

Beginning with three categories: A Portfolio of Great Sports Pictures; Highlights of the Year; the World Series, it then presents summaries of the individual sports. Recognition comes for the equestrian world in four chapters: HARNESS RACING, with a full-page picture of an amazing triple dead heat; HORSE SHOWS, the cynosure being Captain W. C. Steinkraus of the U.S.E. Team, with an appendage of the A.H.S.A. High Score Award Winners; HORSE RACING, high-lighted by a photo of another unusual triple dead heat; POLO, illustrated with a photo previously published in THE CHRONICLE, with a listing of the 1957 Polo Champions.

This is one of the best books of the year. The sportsman will look forward eagerly to the enjoyment of each succeeding issue. E.S.W.

Tricorn And Courage

Nicola Bryant

It was eight o'clock, and morning stables were over. The spring sunshine was rich on the cobbles and gravel of the yards. Christopher Lacombe went across to the arch of the litter store where the other lads were breakfasting on bales ranged around the carpet of sunlight in the doorway. The smell of hot coffee came easily through the chill air. Glancing round before he lodged himself on the spare end of a bale, Chris saw that it came from Barber's green flask, which stood among the ragged stems of straw on the floor, steaming tantalisingly.

Barber was the eldest lad. He was eighteen, and in a few weeks would leave his apprenticeship days behind. Only the favoured drank coffee with him. Chris, the youngest of all, took the wide rubber band from his packet of sandwiches.

"You're in the 'April', Lacombe", Barber said, scraping the coffee drips into the flask from the bottom of his cup.

"Oh, yes? Chris said mildly, not looking round, having grown indifferent, and tolerant of teasing.

"You are! Slit me throat you are!" Chris grinned vaguely at the wrinkled greaseproof paper round his food.

"You picked a poor line to get on to me with today," he said amiably, looking round with little red threads of corned beef sticking from his lips. "Considering me only horse is a green three-year-old that can't place over seven furlongs, let alone nine....."

Barber understood his attitude, and felt rather like the boy who cried "Wolf!"

"Honest! I saw it in the 'Calendar'! There ent two colts called 'Tricorn and Co'!"

Christopher smiled round at him, disbelieving that he should try such a simple joke. The others were staring at Barber's eagerness. His ally, Johnson, wiped the edge of the coffee cup where Barber had drunk and sipped from it. He burst indignantly,

"Oh, yes you are, you runt, you!"

From the house, Mrs. Osborne, the trainer's wife, called to them.

"Tea up! You people must be frozen!"

The coffee drinkers departed, while the younger lads went to the house. Barber, walking sideways across the gravel, called to Chris.

"You see, then Lacombe, if I'm not right."

"Okay," Chris called back, looking round after him and wondering.

"What in the name of everything's got into him?" asked Corby.

"Can't think."

"You don't think he meant it, do you?"

"How could he have done? The April Handicap is a mile and a furlong to start with, and Tricorn has only been over seven, and a mile once schooling. Then, the 'April' is about four weeks away, and Tri's not nearly fit: look at the class of it, anyway."

"Tri's breeding is top-line, and you know it," said someone else, licking jam off his thumb.

"Yes, but Tri isn't! He's as raw as they come, he's not full-grown yet. When he's five, he'll leave them standing and do it backwards, but he's slow developing now!"

The topic only stirred in Christopher's brain once that day, and in the evening, when he saw Barber smirking cynically at him, he forgot it completely.

The next day was sunny and warm. The small stable had five horses running at a course in Dorset, fifty miles away, so that the premises seemed rather lonely throughout the round of jobs that ground its way into the evening. Paul took Mr. Osborne's hack and supervised the evening ride, which was only walking, up and along the top of a small hill to the north nearby.

In the calmness of sunset, Christopher was very contented. Below him, Tricorn and Co. was warm and lean; he ate each day enormous amounts of food, and too slowly his good frame filled; he was only just beginning to fulfil the trust of his breeders. He wouldn't start going out into the world for ages, yet, Chris thought. When he was ready to begin an exalted career, they would get him a jockey with years of experience, but meanwhile, they parked him onto Chris. Lacombe, who was only twelve himself, and as green as you got.

There was noise and bustle on their return. The horsebox was waiting in the yard, with people sweeping it out. The horses were being fed and strapped and bedded, while Mr. Osborne was obviously showing some future patrons round the boxes. Paul, his nephew, swung off the hack, and was introduced.

Tricorn and Courage

All the shadows were long-legged in the sun. Chris unsaddled and began to settle his horse for the night. After body, legs, tail and feet were done, he arranged Tricorn's rug in his hands, then aimed it at the bony lump of withers above him. The rug flapped neatly into place over the colt's back, then suddenly shadows were blocking the sunlight and voices crowding the loosebox.

After brief introductions to the visitors, Chris stooped to catch the surcingle again as it dangled in the straw. When the others had been captured by Mrs. Osborne for drinks, Mr. Osborne said suddenly, "Have I told you, Lacombe, that I've put your colt in the 'April'?"

Chris stood round quickly, gazing at the silhouette in the red sundazzle. Tricorn and Co. jumped at this sudden movement and bumped against the wall gently. Chris felt numb and sick.

"No, sir," he said, trying to think of something to say. "Will he be fit?"

"I hope so, Lacombe."

Well, crikey! Chris thought furiously: what the hell did they think they were doing to him? They'd have him crossing fences next!

When the trainer had gone, Christopher gazed horrified at his colt, his fragile colt, to be taken from this safe little world. Imagine tiny, unmade Tricorn in a great melee of about twenty odd tough cup horses, twice or three times his age and with all the experience possible. He'd be a frightened wreck at the end of it all, floundering in dead unsympathetic Midland mud, and for nothing. Chris angrily wiped tears of helplessness on Tricorn's warm rugged shoulder and left him.

"Told you, Lacombe, didn't I?" Barber said, with the wind in his hair, the next morning. The weather had grown sunless and grey, as had Christopher's outlook; and when the ride reached the gallops, a small snarling wind began to play with the lettered corners of horses' sheets and to swing round their tails. Barber had seen the head lad giving Chris directions, and rode up before the ride circled finally round Paul on the docked chestnut cob.

"You did," agreed Chris, gazing down Tricorn and Co.'s warm shoulder onto the thick grass. Barber turned his head into the wind so that his hair lay meekly flat while he settled his cap back.

"Can't think why they put him in," he remarked, being contemptuous, in case his apparent friendliness appeared unusual.

"Neither can I!" Chris burst out. "In two years he'll do it backwards but now! Poor little blighter!"

"You're in a stink because you won't get a present out of it, I suppose," Barber said, smiling with withering amusement. Christopher disregarded his remark, but as he turned his horse to follow Barber's, a nasty blanch of dread soaked his stomach. Suppose Barber rode him in the 'April'? To think of his mercenary hands holding Tri's mouth, it was too sickening. He wasn't jealous, he knew, but he could not understand the possessive anxiety he felt for the colt nowadays.

The spring days lengthened, flitting past in sunshine and rain. The head lad took Tricorn out on the roads every afternoon, trotting gently for half an hour to tighten his legs, while Christopher grew more and more nervous. On the days when he and Corby went to technical school in the borough five miles away, they put someone up on his colt and sent him for a sprint which grew faster and longer as the weeks swayed by. Chris was miserable about Tricorn's fate; and his own. He didn't matter to the colt any more, and felt that he would soon be changed to a two-year-old gelding, to make way for someone more competent. In his wilder moments, when he and Tricorn were alone in the loosebox, and the colt would rub his lips sideways over the buttons of Chris's jacket, he thought of galloping away and not coming back till it was all over, but in this world, you just couldn't, he realised.

THE CHRONICLE

Twice they raced the colt, which was perfectly normal; in a field of twenty he raced alone on one side to come seventh, and then he came third of five, eight days before 'April' Friday.

The jockey, who was an independent professional rider, came over to ride Tricorn and Co. on Wednesday. Chris stood watching miserably at the side of Mr. Osborne and Paul, weighed under with rugs and a trailing breaststrap.

Tricorn and Co. enjoyed his work. He exerted himself thoroughly when told, and ran at a maximum speed while dwelling under the jockey. Chris blinked in the onslaught of sudden muddy divots as the colt and a pacer galloped smartly by: a few moments later he heard hooves behind him, and they all turned to find Mrs. Osborne, the cob and two hound puppies she was walking, standing there, all breathless and amiable after a final canter.

The jockey had turned Tricorn, and the black pacer followed him. They both came slowly jogging back and Mrs. Osborne walked the cob in circles and said,

"I only wish I had your confidence about that poor little colt, myself." In the confusion of inquisitive puppies and tetchy Thoroughbred heels that burst as Tricorn came closer, Chris almost smiled with relief. Someone else had the same ideas that he had, someone else had realised with him how inadequate Tricorn was: someone with the status of a trainer's wife.

The racehorses circled behind the calm cob; Paul grabbed the scruffs of the puppies and they stood on their chubby hind legs and made throaty noises, in their attempts to fraternise with these fascinating animals of speed; but Chris watched his trainer's face steadfastly, his eyes narrowed against the wind and pale hair fringe which blew across his face. Now his wife had spoken, surely he would make some comment? Without looking away from Tricorn, the trainer sighed resignedly.

ARIZONA SCHOOL POLO

Betty Bradstreet

If ever anyone was blessed with an embarrassment of riches, it's John J. Walsh, polo coach at Southern Arizona School for Boys near Tucson, who has 31 teenage youngsters on his squad and reporting for practice anywhere from once to five times a week.

On Fridays, he has 28 eager malletmen to divide into scrimmage teams, and never fewer than 18 break for the school corral with the last class bell at 2:35 p.m., to

To give every boy who is at the playing stage two chukkers of competition, six chukkers are often played in an afternoon. At the same time, then, eight boys will be playing, eight "hot-walking" their horses, and the others stick-and-balling as they await their turn. The advanced players take turns refereeing the juniors while Mr. Walsh gives his attention on the sidelines to the stick work of the novices; inelegantly known as "The Hamburgers".

saddle up and head for the oiled skin field in the shadow of the Santa Catalina Mountains.

Polo has never been mentioned as the national game, but it may be this summer when these young zealots disperse to their homes in 23 communities in 15 states.

For its inter-prep school games, the SAS players have to depend on two best-of-three series (varsity and JV) with neighboring Judson of Phoenix, the only other school in the country that still plays 4-man polo.

But scrimmaging is pure fun for everybody (except perhaps the Coach) and the intramural round-robin in the spring is as hotly contested as any high-goal tournament. Discipline is easy to maintain, says Walsh, when the worst disaster that can befall a player is to be sent early from the field.

After the teams finish their second chukker, they walk their horses dry and then return to the corral to unsaddle, water and groom their mounts and turn them into the feeding corral. And then, if there is any time left before they have to shower and dress for dinner, these Tommy Hitchcocks of Tomorrow grab hand-mallets and continue their scrimmaging a-foot.

Horsemen Meet During N. J. Farmers' Week

Three hundred horse and pony breeders in New Jersey gathered for a dinner meeting at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, recently to represent the horse industry during the State's 87th annual Farmers' Week, January 27 - February 1.

The first meeting of its kind, the Horse and Pony Dinner was sponsored jointly by the Thoroughbred Horse Breeders' Association of N. J. and the N. J. Pony Breeders' and Owners' Association, Inc. Mrs. F. Wallis Armstrong, Jr., President of the Thoroughbred group and Ernest C. Bell, President of the Pony group, served as co-chairman for the affair, with Mr. Bell presiding as master of ceremonies. State Secretary of Agriculture Phillip Alampi and representatives of the N.J. Agricultural Extension Service, Rutgers University, were among the honored guests.

Owners of Thoroughbreds, Standardbreds, Morgans, Arabians, Palominos, Western, Tennessee Walkers, Hackney, American Saddle and the various pony breeds journeyed from all corners of the State to represent the horse industry as a fundamental agricultural pursuit in New Jersey.

Humphrey S. Finney, President of the Fasig-Tipton Company, the world's largest Thoroughbred auctioneers, reviewed the increase in the equine census during the past twenty years. In 1938, Mr. Finney stated, there were about 1150 horses of all types bred and owned by 60 New Jersey owners. At present the census stands at approximately 9,000 horses and ponies of various breeds, and the owners of such stock number 580.

The greatest increase in a single breed has been in the Thoroughbred, which is conservatively estimated at 4,000 head of bloodstock supported on 150 New Jersey farms, as contrasted with 150 Thoroughbreds owned by six horse farmers in 1938. Since the establishment of pari-mutuel racing in New Jersey in the early 1940's, the breeding of Thoroughbreds has taken a prominent place in agriculture, elected were: president elect, Mr. H. L. Richards (Brecon); vice-presidents, Miss M. Brodrick, Abergele (North Wales) and Mr. A. L. Williams, Lampeter (South Wales); publicity officer, Mrs. N. Pennell (Hartbury, Gloucester); life vice-presidents, Mr. E. S. Davies (Talybont, Cards.) and Mrs. J. H. Mackay-Smith (Farnley, White Post, Va., U.S.A.); hon. life member, Mr. R. S. Summerhayes (Wimbledon).

Mr. Theron Wilding-Davies, newly elected President of the Welsh Pony and Cob Society, hoof brands for export "Belvoir Carnation" bred by the Duchess of Rutland and sold by her to Mr. U. D. Rider, Devonhurst Farm, Newmarket, Va. Susan Marston holds the pony.

The secretary reported the ballot for the election of eleven members to serve on the council for 1958-60 had resulted in the election of Mr. J. J. Borthwick (Bishops Castle), Miss M. Brodrick (Abergele), Mr. E. S. Davies (Talybont), Mr. Moses Griffith (Caernarvon), Mr. D. O. Morgan (Lampeter), Miss E. Morley (Rearsby, Leicester), Mrs. Yeomans (Bracknell, Berks.), Mrs. G. J. Mountain (Horsted Keynes, Sussex), Mrs. Pennell (Hartbury), Mr. H. L. Richards (Brecon) and Mr. T. Wilding-Davies (Hereford).

Returning thanks for his election as president, Mr. Wilding-Davies said that Welsh Mountain ponies were now big business, and that the society was now very much more important than it used to be. They now had a tremendous export market, and although they must not forget their own home affairs, they had to bear in mind the points of view of the foreign buyers.

A matter of the utmost importance in that connection was the authenticity of their stud book. They must at all costs keep their stud book correct in every detail. The export market was already creating a shortage of ponies, although from the number of entries in the stud book, no one would think so. They had, of course, to cash in on the situation, to a certain extent, but all the same, it was vital that they should see to it that they kept plenty of good foundation stock of well-established bloodlines.

There were some grand ponies of the old stock still on the hills, and it was hoped that no effort would be spared to maintain and improve those animals.

It was hoped to encourage the production of young stallions in the near future, and in the spring they intended awarding premiums to three and four-year-old stallions so that their good stock could be maintained.

Mr. J. A. George, secretary, reported that activities of the society had been practically trebled last year as compared with the previous year, which they had considered a good one. In the stud book there had been 180 stallion registrations compared with 80 in the previous year; there had been 500 mares (against 190); nearly 1,000 appendices (220); 40 geldings (20); 300 transfers (200); and 550 exports (112). That made a total of 2,570 "operational items" compared with 822.

The 550 exports had gone to Belgium (1), Germany (1), South Africa (1), U.S.A. (472), Canada (73), and Sweden (2). The figure of 550 was a record in the history of the society, and for the nine months ended September. Welsh Mountain ponies exceeded in numbers every other breed of livestock exported from this country.

Membership of the society now stood at 560 (423 annual and 137 life). During the year they had had 110 new members, but there had also been a loss through various causes, of about 50, so that they had a net gain of 50 to 60 members.

BERLIN HORSE SHOW

Clevelands For The Queen

The interest of Her Majesty the Queen in Yorkshire's world-famed Cleveland Bay horses increases. There are quite a number in the Royal Mews stables and Brig. W. Sale C.V.O., Crown Equerry, is shortly coming to Yorkshire to buy more for Her Majesty.

This week the Queen has not only given a substantial donation to the funds of the Cleveland Bay Horse Society, but through her private secretary has sent a letter to the Society acknowledging the photo of County Counsellor George Duell's champion Cleveland Bay mare Mulgra ve Contalto, which is closely related to several Clevelands at Buckingham Palace. The letter concludes:

"I am commanded to say that Her Majesty is most pleased to have the photo and has found it of great interest, and sends her thanks to the Society".

Incidentally, the Pakistan Government is shortly sponsoring a big horse show at which Cleveland Bays will figure prominently. The Cleveland Bay Horse Society has been asked and has agreed to give a trophy to the breeder of the winner champion Cleveland Bay at the show. It has been found that the Yorkshire breed is proving most useful in Pakistan for crossing with native horses, grading them up, and giving them quality, stamina and endurance.

contributing substantially to the general economy. Local municipal taxes on such farms are estimated at a million and a half dollars annually and the wages of skilled help total an additional million dollars. The same farmers, through consumption of home-grown crops, contribute huge sums to the general agricultural economy of the Garden State.

Guest speaker Charles E. Bell, Chief of the Animal Husbandry Branch of the Federal Agricultural Extension Service, U.S.D.A., Washington, cited the growth of horse projects among the 4-H groups in New Jersey, where over 500 youngsters are currently participating in horse breeding projects under the leadership of extension service advisors.

The census of Western and Quarter horses in New Jersey stands at about 2500 head, and ponies of every variety number in excess of 1,000.

Representatives of the three running tracks in New Jersey attended the banquet. Monmouth Park Jockey Club's General Manager Edward J. Brennan was accompanied by Comptroller Harvey Wardell, Publicist Barker Seeley, Maintenance Supervisor John Barker and Grass Specialist Ben Dziedzic. The Atlantic City Racing Association group included General Manager Philip A. Baker, Comptroller Robert Quigley and Publicity Agent Lou Cunningham. Garden State Park's group included Assistant General Manager M. McCrane, Comptroller William Fisher and Publicity man Marshall Bainbridge, Jr. Louis Weinstein, accountant for the three racing plants, accompanied the track personnel.

Among the Thoroughbred breeders and owners who entertained parties of friends at the dinner were Mrs. F. Wallis Armstrong, Jr., of Meadowview Farms, Moorestown; Mr. Jean A. Chianese of Trenton; Dr. and Mrs. Russell J. Fobinder, Clearfield Farm, Peapack; Miss Emily L. Stevens, Redfields Stable, Bedminster; John A. Homlish, Picket Fence Farm, Freehold; Dr. John D. ### Fair Grounds

Joe W. Brown's Tenacious took the 1 1/8 - mile A. B. Letellier Memorial Handicap at the Fair Grounds on February 22. The son of Challedon-Dorothy B. Jr., came on in the stretch to score by 2 1/2 lengths. Bernburgoo was second, *St. Amour II was third and Monday Morning, fourth.

Tenacious was accounting for his third victory since January 1, in 6 starts. The added money was $15,000.

R. Broussard rode Tenacious. J. B. Theall is his trainer.

Mrs. J. W. Brown bred the colt, now four years old.

Speed Rouser, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Babbitz, took the Le Comte Handicap on February 15.

The son of Beau Max-Alley, by Rolled Stocking, was home a nose before Ezgo, with Tenacious third.

The winner earned $8,625 for his nine-furlong gallop.

A. Popara rode; H. C. Hoffman trains.

Bowie

There isn't much to tell about Bowie, because the track was closed for five days for the ridiculous reason that nobody could get there.

A headline in a Baltimore paper told the story of the "reopening", February 22.

The banner read: "Ten Platers Go In Bowie Feature."

They were $7,500 platers, though. NOTE: John Delahoussaye, the jockey, is the nephew of Junius Delahoussaye, the owner, trainer and breeder. Looks like an awful lot of J. Delahoussayes when you see the names listed in the past performances. (Page 4, February 21 issue)

Hartack and Time

The issue of TIME magazine dated February 10, 1958 bears a picture (a very good one too) on the front cover of Thoroughbred racing's amazing Bill Hartack. As is TIME's custom, the feature article is about the person on the cover, Hartack in this instance. It is a good story too, splendid publicity for racing all right.

I keep wondering why, though, when non-racing people write about racing, the writers always have to put bad grammar into the mouths of the racing people. It makes those engaged in this fine sport sound like a lot of riff raff which just isn't the case. Maybe 50 years ago, there was much that racing could blush for. Now there's not too much in racing itself to be ashamed of and there is plenty to be darned well proud of. So we need better public relations maybe? R.J.Clark

WINKLER WINS AT HANNOVER

The Olympic champion Herr Winkler won the golden sash for the most successful competitor at the recent Hannover indoor international horse show. Not only did he win the Grosser Preis von Hannover and the Puissance event, but also the Dressage Test with his novice horse "Grandeza".

R. Sch.

Mrs. J. H. McKnight, owner of the three steeplechasers which appear on our cover writes: "This is a wonderful likeness of the three horses and Mike and Paddy Smithwick. Mike and Paddy are pretty current news what with being the leading trainer and leading jump rider of '57. The painting was done at Mrs. Ogden Phipps' place on Long Island while the horses were running at the Belmont fall meeting of 1957. On the left is Great Tom, in the center *Narcissus II and on the right, with Paddy up, is *Darubini. Great Tom is by Menow out of Widow's Peak bred by Mrs. John W. Hanes; *Narcissus II is by Borealis-Vanity Fair and was bred by Queen Elizabeth II; and *Darubini is by Dante-Dodoma II and was bred by the Aga and Aly Khan. Between them they won 10 races and $56,910 to put me third on the list of number of races won and third on the list of money won in the steeple-chasing game for 1957. This was most gratifying especially so, considering the size of the stables that finished ahead of me."

The artist writes "I have tried to put into this painting not only likeness, but also something of the feeling I had when I saw these horses, these two brothers and this lovely setting which was a perfect natural for the background. I can only describe this feeling as a sort of glow of warmth and strength and beauty."

AK-SAR-BEN RIDING CLUB

CLARENCE "HONEY" CRAVEN NAMED MANAGER OF NATIONAL HORSE SHOW

Clarence L. "Honey" Craven, long-time ringmaster of the National Horse Show held each fall at Madison Square Garden, has been named manager of the Show, Wm. Joshua Barney, Jr., President of the National, announced today. He succeeds Eric Atturbury, who served as manager since 1953.

Mr. Craven, who has been well known to National Horse Show exhibitors, officials and audiences for 25 years, is president of the Professional Horsemen's Association, having just been reelected to his second term. He resides in Cohasset, Mass.

Mr. Craven will start work with Mr. Barney, James A. Thomas, Jr., and other officials of the National on the 1958 show within the next week or so as the eight day-and-night sports spectacle requires eight or more months of detailed preparations.

GOSHEN HUNT

By agreement between the Redland Hunt and the Redland Hunt Association, witnessed by J. Fife Symington, District Representative of the Masters of Foxhounds Association, the latter organization has changed its name to the Goshen Hunt and have agreed that the Westerly boundary line of the hunting country recorded by the M.F.H. Association of American under the name of Redland Hunt shall be amended so that it will follow the below described line:

Starting at a point where Route 97 intersects the presently recorded southern boundary line of the Redland Hunt and proceeding in a northerly direction along Route 97 through Olney to Brookville thence westerly on the Brookville Road to the entrance to the Howard's Farm, thence northerly to the road leading into the Mayer Farm, thence westerly to the entrance to Riggs Road, thence along Riggs Road to a point directly south of Bench mark, thence north to Bench mark on the Unity-Laytonsville Road, thence northwesterly in a straight line to Etchison.

WE MADE IT

Chronicle subscribers who received their Friday, February 21, 1958 issue a day late might be interested in knowing it was only by "the skin of our teeth", "The Grace of God" and whatever lucky star we had over us, that we were able to complete the paper. All members of our composing room were snowbound and made their first appearance on the scene on Thursday, way after deadline. One was snowbound for the whole week.

However, we were fortunate that one of our former employees, Doris Thomas, who lives in Middleburg, kindly dropped her household duties to do an excellent job of pinch-hitting on Wednesday, which enabled us to complete The Chronicle that evening.

With the additional aid of a skeleton crew, plus the fact that Patty Kortlandt, who has charge of our composing room had some sort of a premonition and worked up a lot of copy in advance, we made it, "praises be".

The pipes in the building were still frozen on Friday February 21, but we hope that things will be normal by the time our February 28th issue reaches our subscribers. M.R.

MRS. DART

Mrs. Russell Dart, who with her husband operates a farm near Berryville, Va., had reservations at the Winchester Hospital for the arrival of a new member of the family, when the big snow came. Dr. Thomas Iden, of Berryville thereupon mounted a local hunter and reached the Dart homestead in time to make Mrs. Dart and her daughter comfortable. She is a regular follower of the Blue Ridge Hunt and has also been active in the Vermont 100-Mile Trail Ride.
